The Difference Between Apple Card Gift Card and iTunes Gift Card

Ideally, you might still see older cards labeled explicitly as an itunes gift card or an apple store gift card. Years ago, these were separate. The iTunes card was for digital media, while the Store card was for physical hardware like iPhones and MacBooks.

Today, Apple has simplified this with the universal apple gift card apple users love. The "Everything Apple" card usually features a colorful Apple logo on a white background. If you have an older itunes gift card lying around, don't worry—it is still valid and can be redeemed for account balance just like the new ones.
